Hanna-Barbera 1957-2001

HANNA-BARBERA PRODUCTIONS, 1957-2001

Joe Barbera and Bill Hanna working on Tom and Jerry at MGM, circa 1939.

Almost symbolically, Bill Hanna passed away this year, and the company he co-founded with Joe Barbera — Hanna-Barbera Productions — also disappeared into the corporate morass that is AOL-Time Warner.

Bill & Joe were a force, bigger than the studio that bore their name. A perfect partnership and one of the few successful examples of artists running an animation studio. They started Hanna-Barbera Productions in 1957, after a 20-year stint at MGM, where they routinely brought home Oscars for the perennially popular Tom and Jerry shorts. Beginning with Ruff 'N Reddy and Huckleberry Hound, they built a cartoon empire and created more famous-name cartoon stars than anyone else on planet Earth. Yogi Bear, The Flintstones, The Jetsons, Jonny Quest, Scooby Doo... do we have to name them all?

Bill and Joe were honest about what they were doing. They knew who the good artists were, the best writers, the finest actors. They knew that their limited animation for television was inferior to their previous MGM films, they admitted that junk (like Moby Dick or SeaLab) was junk. But they had a bigger picture in mind.

Hanna-Barbera practically saved the animation business when movie studios abandoned theatrical cartoons in the fifties. Most of the top people in animation were looking at pink slips, but Bill and Joe resolved to turn the movie-killing television medium to their advantage. In terms of keeping our favorite art form alive, they were heroes.

Their legacy still thrives today with constant replay of these classics on Cartoon Network and Boomerang, with further live action adaptions of Josie and the Pussycats, Scooby-Doo and The Flintstones for movie screens.

What was once the Hanna-Barbera studio, its latter day productions being Scooby-Doo direct-to-video movies and the Dexter's Laboratory series, has evolved into Cartoon Network Studios, which carries on the tradition with The Powerpuff Girls.

An early model sheet shows the original title for the show that eventually became The Flintstones.

Hanna and Barbera in their later years, as "elder statesmen" of animation.

This edition of The Whole Toon Catalog is dedicated to Bill and Joe, to Hanna-Barbera, and to all their wonderful creations of the 20th Century.

Since its beginning in 1988 as a kitchen-table enterprise, The Whole Toon Catalog has worked hard to provide animation-lovers with both the cartoons they love and knowledge to help them get the most out of their passion.

With the vast amount of animation being released on VHS and DVD video, keeping a catalog such as this current has always been a challenge. In response to this challenge, Facets has been feverishly working to enhance our website: www.facets.org. With over 50,000 video titles in the database, we are steadily implementing a system to make all the titles accessible on-line.

You can already order most of our titles from the website, and we will soon have the Whole Toon Catalog ready in an on-line version.

ACTING FOR ANIMATORS

Ed Hooks (2001)

Ed Hooks has taught acting to animators at Pacific Data Images, Will Vinton Studios, and many others. He offers his insights here on what animators need to know, and what they don't need to know. He explores the relationships between thought and physical action, and provides the steps for an effective character analysis and the dynamics of a scene. The accompanying CD-ROM provides concrete examples, including video clips of improv based on the seven essentials of acting, and highlights of Rudolph Laban's movement theory.

ANIME ESSENTIALS:
Every Thing a Fan Needs to Know

This guide to Japanese animation is more of a primer for newcomers than a deep insight into the genre or an exhaustive catalog. Filled with good pictures, bits of trivia and heartfelt opinion, it's an entertaining, if a bit thin, overview. A list of recommended anime titles and books will be helpful to those looking for a place to start, but old news to more experienced fans.

A CHARLIE BROWN CHRISTMAS:
The Making of a Tradition*Lee Mendelson,
Bill Melendez
(2000)*

This celebration of the 1965 TV special contains the entire shooting script for the show, illustrated with color still frames. Producers Mendelson and Melendez contribute their personal recollections of the project, including their long-time friendship and collaborations with Charles M. Schulz. They also share memories of jazz composer Vince Guaraldi, and offer background sketches, storyboards, and behind-the-scenes materials never before published. There are even the piano/vocal scores for Guaraldi's "Christmas Time Is Here" and "Linus and Lucy."

CHICKEN RUN : HATCHING THE MOVIE

Brian Sibley (2000)

This companion book to the popular Aardman Animations feature film is a definite cut above the ordinary. Based on extensive interviews with acclaimed directors Nick Park and Peter Lord and their gifted team of stop-motion animation artists, and reproducing a wealth of visual material, reading the book is almost like working alongside the animators for three years. Lots of nuts and bolts technique here for students of stop-motion animation.

DINOSAUR : THE EVOLUTION OF AN ANIMATED FEATURE

Jeff Kurtti (2000)

This companion book to the computer-animated Disney feature joins a long list of "The Art Of" titles, and generally fills the bill well enough. Lots of pre-production artwork, film stills, character sketches, storyboards, and interviews with animators and production staff. No shattering insights here, but a great addition to your coffee-table.

THE DISNEY FILMS, 4TH EDITION

Leonard Maltin (2000)

Leonard Maltin's Disney bible is back and better than ever. They're all here: every feature film, every short subject, every TV show. The features each get a quite lengthy and illuminating review, from Snow White to That Darn Cat! The TV shows and short subjects each get a group overview, with complete title listings. The copious illustrations and Maltin's enjoyable, insightful writing make for an unbeatable combination. It's a heck of a lotto book for the money. Highly recommended.

THE SIMPSONS GUIDE TO SPRINGFIELD

Matt Groening (1998)

The fantastically inventive and prolific creators of The Simpsons wade deeper than ever into the alternate universe of Springfield. Apparently the long-running TV series is far too puny to contain the enormous quantity of jokes, parodies and off-the-wall concepts that the show's writing staff can produce. The Simpsons' home town offers visitors such delights as the Happy Earwig Hotel, the South Street Squidport, Gulp'n Blow, Noiseland Video Arcade, and King Toot's Music Store. This travel guide goes into exquisite detail, with quotes from prominent citizens and historic sidebars (including Jebidiah Springfield's prosthetic tongue). Yet another must-have addition to any Simpson fan's library.

MY LIFE AS A TEN YEAR OLD BOY

Nancy Cartwright (2000)

Actress Nancy Cartwright treats the reader to a wonderful behind-the-scenes tour of The Simpsons. The voice of Bart Simpson, Nancy has had a long and unconventional career, and her reminiscences are told in an engaging style. Anecdotes of working with celebrity guests provide some of the highlights, along with backstage views of the daily production process. Nancy did have a career before The Simpsons, and her road to success, including a mentor relationship with Daws Butler, makes for an interesting read. All in all, this is an autobiography that's hard to put down.

THE ANIMATION BOOK New Digital Edition

Kit Laybourne (1998)

This new edition represents a major makeover. There are 80 pages of new text, with hundreds of illustrations and frame grabs. Seven chapters are wholly new and cover topics that didn't even exist when the book was first published in 1979. Only three of the chapters remain untouched by computers. The book aims to do more than provide you with a comprehensive introduction to the world of animation—it will try to coax you into becoming an animator, with many projects and "assignments" lurking throughout the text. Indispensable for the working or aspiring animator, including lots of reference on materials, organizations, hardware, and schools.

ANIMATION FROM SCRIPT TO SCREEN

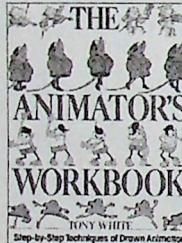

Shamus Culhane (1988)

Shamus Culhane, the animator of the dwarfs' march in Snow White, of Pluto, of countless other Disney sequences as well as those of other studios, makes it possible to learn a concrete skill from a book. Covering every aspect of film animation, from basic mechanics to giving creativity full play, and including writing, recording, acting, dialogue—even how to manage an animation studio of one's own, Culhane lives up to the book's title. Written by a man who knows and loves his subject and has a gift for communicating his thoughts.

BEFORE MICKEY

The Animated Film, 1898-1928

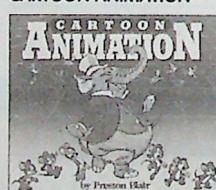

Donald Crafton (1993)

In this revised edition of his 1984 book, Crafton's scholarship is quite lively, and his descriptions evocative and often funny. He has compellingly filled the gaps in the area of silent animated films that have been so overlooked over the years. The documentary material covering artistic, commercial, and technological developments in the USA and Europe will prove invaluable to animation specialists. The book chronicles the achievements of Emile Cohl, Otto Messmer, Winsor McCay, John Randolph Bray, and many others, as the technique of film animation advanced from the early Zoetrope devices and "trick films" toward the compelling new art form it eventually became. All in all, Crafton has succeeded in writing a factual, scholarly reference work that is a pleasure to read for recreation.

CARTOON ANIMATION

Preston Blair (1994)

In this comprehensive book, acclaimed animator Preston Blair taps his vast practical knowledge to explain and demonstrate the fundamentals of cartoon animation. This title contains all the pages from the original editions of Blair's two Foster books: How To Draw Cartoon Animation and How To Animate Film Cartoons - plus much previously unpublished artwork. Animators and students have dog-eared their copies of Blair's how-to books for decades, and his classic walk cycles have been copied countless times. Just as Tex Avery exemplifies the "classic" Hollywood Cartoon style, Blair-Tex's lead animator—stands out as the "classic" animator of that style. Think Red Hot Riding Hood.

The Adventures of Canadian Animators

Karen Mazurkewich (1999)

Here at last is a detailed, comprehensive, illustration-packed survey of Canadian animation. The saga of the National Film Board of Canada, the proliferation of commercial studios such as Nelvana, the offbeat independents such as International Rocketship, the auteurs such as Richard Williams, and the digital pioneers such as Alias are all presented with insight and tremendous detail. Special attention is given to the Canadian roots of many top animators in the USA, and the Canadian servicing of many top US shows and series. Well-researched, well-written, and brimming with illustrations, Mazurkewich's book is a major reference and a can't-put-down read.

CARTOON CHARLIE

The Life and Art of Animation Pioneer Charles Thorson

Gene Walz (1998)

Gene Walz's book is a vivid portrait of the enigmatic Charles Thorson – a Canadian illustrator who drew the model sheet for "Hare-um Scare-um" and came up with the name "Bugs Bunny." The well-traveled artist left a distinctive stylistic mark wherever he went, and the author brings to light many fascinating examples of his legacy.

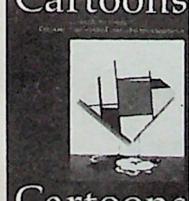

at Disney, Thorson is credited with the design of Snow White, Elmer Elephant and Little Hiawatha. At Warner's he is cited as a strong influence on the young Chuck Jones during his "cute" Sniffles and Inki period. Most notably, Thorson is the artist who drew the model sheet for "Hare-um Scare-um" and came up with the name "Bugs Bunny." The well-traveled artist left a distinctive stylistic mark wherever he went, and the author brings to light many fascinating examples of his legacy.

One Hundred Years of Cinema Animation

Giannalberto Bendazzi (1994)

This is an incredible resource for the study of worldwide animation. The account opens with Emile Reynaud in 1888, and moves on to offer an historical account of all aspects of animation: short and full-length films, directors, cultural influences, trends, production companies, TV series, and computer animation. What sets this book apart from most is its breadth - all regions of the world are covered, with extensive illustrative reference. Over 70 countries, 2,000 animators, and 3,000 films are covered, offering a great deal of information that has never before been collected.

CHUCK JONES: A FLURRY OF DRAWINGS

Hugh Kenner (1994)

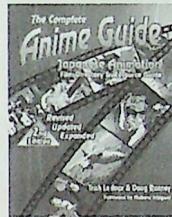

Kenner has written an incisive examination of Chuck Jones and his body of work. He notes the biographical details, but focuses on the films themselves, and the time and place in which they were made. His insights into the humor, the technical virtuosity, and the originality of Jones' best work betray the author's deep affection for the medium and for Jones. Chuck relates that a pig cannot be made into a racehorse. What might be reasonably hoped for, he says, is "a mighty fast pig." Kenner argues that Jones has indeed made himself a racehorse.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ANIMATED CARTOONS Second Edition

The Encyclopedia of Animated Cartoons. As fans and scholars are known to do, many found nitspicks and errors in the content, but it nonetheless stood alone as a one-stop reference for animation. Now the new edition has added 8 years of updated material and provides over 2,200 entries in all. Each entry provides: creators, directors, studios, voices, episode titles, running times and dates of release. Also included are plot summaries, character descriptions and trivia about the origin of the cartoons. But here's the shocker: the new edition has dropped the episode title lists! It's distressing to see this vast treasure trove of information cast aside. With that major flaw noted, as well as the persistence of small but numerous errors, it must be said that The Encyclopedia of Animated Cartoons stands alone as the most comprehensive and up-to-date animation reference ever. It belongs on the bookshelf of every reader of this catalog.

FILM CARTOONS A Guide to 20th Century American Animated Features and Shorts

This research work contains no editorial text at all. It's a listing of 180 animated features, 55 movies containing animated sequences, and 1,375 animated shorts. As far as it goes, it's pretty good—giving synopses, credits, voices, etc. for all the listed films. You'll find some, but not all, of the films from Disney, Warners, MGM, Lantz, Bray, DePatie-Freleng, Fleischer, UPA, Aardman, Plympton, and so forth. The problem is the spottiness of the coverage. It's hard to guess what purpose this book was intended to serve, as it's nowhere near comprehensive in its listings, nor is it full of much analysis or insight. Animation completists might enjoy it, but most others should give it a pass.

HOLLYWOOD CARTOONS American Animation In Its Golden Age

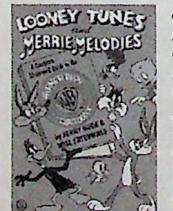

Michael Barrier (1999)

Animation historian Mike Barrier's long-awaited book is a masterful blend of rich history, new facts and strong opinion. Barrier spans the century, from Winsor McCay to John Kricfalusi, with particular emphasis on the medium's two greatest achievements, the Disney studio of the 1930s and Warner Bros. cartoons of the 1940s. Barrier makes a compelling case for what makes great animation, and celebrates its major artists: Walt Disney, Bob Clampett, Bill Tytla, Rod Scribner, Jim Tyrer and others. His opinions on Chuck Jones, Tex Avery and UPA will cause debate for years to come. An excellent companion to Maltin's Of Mice and Magic, an intelligent discourse and an important document reflecting years of painstaking research. A must-read for any serious animation fan or scholar.

THE MOOSE THAT ROARED

The Story of Jay Ward, Bill Scott, a Flying Squirrel, and a Talking Moose

Keith Scott (2000)

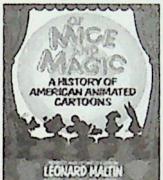

A must-have book! It's the complete story of Jay Ward, from Crusader Rabbit in 1949 to the final Cap'n Crunch commercial in 1984. It's the full story of Bill Scott, from his introduction to animation as part of the First Army Unit in WWII to the Gummi Bears. It has a massive filmography of every Jay Ward cartoon, insanely detailed, with credits, voices, dates and full plot synopses. There is a filmography of every Fractured Flickers episode, and every unsold pilot and a checklist of EVERY commercial the studio made. A special appendix gives biographies of every key Ward collaborator, a who's who, with new information on animators (Pete Burness, etc.), writers (Chris Hayward, etc.), musicians (Dennis Farson, etc.), editors (Skip Craig, etc.) and creators (Ted Key of "Hazel" fame, also created Mr. Peabody and Sherman, etc.). OF MICE AND MAGIC

A History of American Animated Cartoons

Leonard Maltin (1987)

If you could only have one book in your animation library, this would have to be it. First published in 1980, Of Mice and Magic has remained the authoritative, encyclopedic reference work on American animation against which all others are measured. With the able assistance of Jerry Beck and others, Maltin managed to turn out a thorough, accurate, insightful, and beautifully written survey long before "animation scholars" were much in evidence. He covers all the major American cartoon studios—Walt Disney, Max Fleischer, Paul Terry, Walter Lantz, Ub Iwerks, Van Beuren, Columbia, Warner Bros., MGM, Paramount, UPA, and "The Rest Of The Story", with complete filmographies on each. In recent years, scholars who have had the luxury of this book to build upon have begun to snippet details here and there, but it remains probably the most dog-eared of all reference books on the subject.

John Canemaker
(1999)

While viewing page after page of storyboard art, we also learn something about Walt with all his faults and foibles on display, and see that many times the chemistry between him and the artists produced not-so-happy endings. We meet men like T. Hee and Bill Peet, Salvador Dalí and even Orson Welles—who Walt himself admits was even more of a terror than Disney. The artwork and reproduction quality are stellar.

THE SIMPSONS

A Complete Guide to Our Favorite Family

Ray Richmond, ed. (1997)

This jam-packed guide is full of all the details that Simpsons lovers delight in: sneaky details, hidden jokes, annoying catchphrases, subtle background signs, freeze-frame jokes, vital statistics and factsoids. Not to mention synopses and still frames from every Simpsons episode, including selected dialogue and guest-voice credits. Oh yeah, and a picture and profile of every character that ever appeared in an episode. "Complete" is a gross understatement!

TEX AVERY: KING OF CARTOONS

Joe Adamson (1975)

The definitive biography of Tex Avery—with many exclusive interviews of Tex and his co-workers. Today's animation fans may not appreciate the fact that in 1975, Tex Avery was far from a household name, even among animators themselves. That Tex now holds his well-deserved reputation as a seminal influence in the field is due in no small part to the publication of this book. Adamson traces the career of animation's wildest and perhaps most influential director with special attention to the philosophy and experimentation that set Avery apart from the bulk of his contemporaries. Amply illustrated with a complete filmography and Adamson's personal critique of every single Avery cartoon.

An Illustrated Encyclopedia, 1949 through 1993

Hal Erickson (1995)

Hal Erickson's book is an overwhelming reference to animated cartoons made for television—from such pioneers as Tele-Comics (1949) to Beavis & Butt-Head. Each entry includes broadcast information, credits, production information, and best of all, Erickson's wonderfully entertaining essay blending plot description, critical commentary, and background details. This is not a coffee-table book. For any serious student of animation it is unequivocally recommended as one of a handful of indispensable animation references.

WALT IN WONDERLAND

The Silent Films of Walt Disney

Russell Merritt &
J.B. Kaufman (1992)

From 1921 to 1928, Walt Disney made upwards of 90 silent films, including the Alice comedies and Oswald cartoons. Years before Mickey Mouse, he recruited an extraordinary array of talent that included Ubbe Iwerks, Rudy Ising, Carl Stalling, Hugh Harman and Friz Freleng. Drawing on interviews with co-workers, business papers, promotional materials, scripts, drawings, and correspondence, the authors have done a remarkable job of reconstructing Disney's silent film career. It's far and away the best account of these often-overlooked early years that laid the groundwork for the future Disney empire. Includes much artwork from Disney's own hand.

The Life & Death of the American Animated Cartoon

Norman M. Klein (1993)

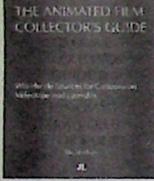

Approaching the subject from a decidedly scholarly point of view, Klein examines the Gestalt of the Hollywood cartoon. He traces the social and aesthetic sensibilities that shaped and were reflected in the works of Disney, Warners, MGM and others, and reviews the graphics, scripts and marketing of each era. He details the internal production and political structures of the studios and discovers links between cartoon and live action movies, newspapers, popular illustration, and the entertainment architecture of Disneyland. Thoughtful analysis for the serious toon student.

THE ANIMATED FILM COLLECTOR'S GUIDE

Worldwide Sources for Cartoons on Videotape and Laserdisc

David Kilmer (1997)

All credit is due David Kilmer for his ambitious attempt at creating a master reference for cartoons on videotape. His work also happens to highlight the shortcomings of a paper-and-ink book compared to a computerized relational database. The good news is that perhaps 4,000 animated film titles are listed alphabetically and cross-referenced to their appearance on one or more of 656 videotapes worldwide. The bad news is that there are inevitably many errors and omissions and the ability to search for cartoons is restricted to an alphabetical title list or an author/character/studio list. No attempt is made to summarize any of the films listed. Nonetheless, it's a place to start, and the inclusion of PAL formats along with references for tape distributors and retailers is helpful in pursuing some of the leads gleaned from the author's lists.

Graham Webb (2000)

This encyclopedia covers all English-language animation from the first 80 years of its history. Nearly 7,000 titles are covered, from shorts to features, and from the most obscure to Disney blockbusters. Each entry includes production information, date, running time, and a synopsis. Much of the information is rare. For example, character voices long considered anonymous are now identified, and many films that no longer exist are still listed and described. A complete index allows multiple points of access.

ANIMATING CULTURE

Hollywood Cartoons from the Sound Era

Eric Smoodin (1993)

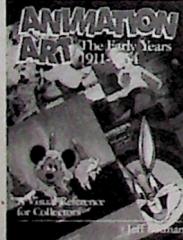

Smoodin explores the animated shorts and the system that mass-produced them from a scholarly viewpoint. He examines how they were exhibited in theatres and how they fit into the overall bill of fare presented to the audience. Who did they speak to? What did they say about race, class and gender? What were the social functions of Donald Duck and Minnie Mouse? His analysis of the multiple discourses embedded in a variety of cartoons reveals the complex and sometimes contradictory ways that animation dealt with class relations, labor, imperialism and censorship.

(1997)

Trish Ledoux is editor of Animerica magazine, the most high-profile English-language publication covering Japanese animation. Collected here are five years worth of interviews with many of Japan's leading animators and manga artists. In many cases, these interviews are the only ones available in English. The subject matter tends to focus on the hearts and minds of the interviewees, rather than on analysis of specific works. Those who read the anime fan press regularly will probably not find any new insights, but it's a terrific book for those just beginning to explore the genre.

ART IN MOTION
Animation Aesthetics

Maureen Furniss (1998)
"Scholarly" would be the word you'd apply to Furniss' new book. In the introduction, the reader and budding researcher are warned away from writings "written by knowledgeable fans," and from "anecdotal material." Her aim is to provide an objective overview and "definition" of animation, free from opinion or distortion.

The result is not so dry as you might expect, though, as she is a skillful writer. The book is generously illustrated, and undeniably packed with "hard" facts. It examines minutely the aesthetics of the full range of animated film techniques, and takes nothing for granted.

BEATLETOONS

The Real Story Behind The Cartoon Beatles

Mitchell Axelrod (1999)

As cartoonist Ron Campbell says in the foreword, "The Beatles was a mundane, uninspired, technically deprived and artistically crude Saturday morning TV series, and it was an enormous hit." This book has much the same production values as the series, but the author has packed SO much detail and so many specifics into it that it serves as a case study of the prototypical made-for-hire animated TV series. From Al Brodax's first inspiration to cash in on Beatlemania to the eventual network premiere, each business decision is detailed, each production problem is described, and quite often the actual costs and returns are specified. The book includes interviews with creator Al Brodax, animators, directors, voice actors and scriptwriters, and a complete episode guide with production notes. Beatle fans must have it, of course, but anyone interested in the business side of animation will find it riveting regardless of their opinion of the show itself.

THAT'S ENOUGH FOLKS

Black Images in Animated Cartoons, 1900-1960

Henry T. Sampson (1998)

This is the first book to detail the history of Black images in animated cartoons, using advertisements, quotes from producers, newspaper reviews, and other sources. Sampson provides detailed storylines with dialogue, revealing the extensive use of negative caricatures of African-Americans. He discusses burlesques on slave plantation life, African safari with white hunters and native cannibals, and cartoons featuring the music of Cab Calloway, Louis Armstrong, and Fats Waller. The book includes many rare, unpublished illustrations and original stills, and an appendix listing titles with Black characters and brief descriptions of some of the gags.

UNDERSTANDING ANIMATION

Paul Wells (1998)

Media Studies professor Wells has written a comprehensive introduction to animated film. He defines the characteristics of the cinematic form, outlines models for interpretation of the films, and traces the development of animated film around the world. This book includes notes towards a theory of animation, an explanation of narrative strategies, an analysis of how comic events are constructed, a discussion of gender and race representation, and primary research on animation and audiences. Case studies include Chuck Jones' Duck Amuck, Jan Svankmajer's Jabberwocky, Tex Avery's King Size Canary and Nick Park's Creature Comforts.

WALT DISNEY: A BIO-BIBLIOGRAPHY

Kathy M. Jackson (1993)

Few people in Western civilization have occasioned more commentary, criticism or discussion than Walt Disney. Ms. Jackson has attempted an overview of what has been written over the years and to summarize many of the areas of modern culture that Disney has influenced. An entire chapter is devoted to Disney's speeches and interviews. The largest chapter lists many of the main sources of writings, abstracting major works and listing hundreds of other references. Additional indexes include chronologies, filmography, and awards.

THE ADVENTURES OF ROCKY AND BULLWINKLE NEW

This combination of live-action and animation tries hard to capture the sensibility of Jay Ward's wonderful cartoons of the sixties, but, despite occasional success, generally falls flat. Rocky and Bullwinkle are brought out of retirement when Boris (Jason Alexander), Natasha (Rene Russo), and Fearless Leader (Robert DeNiro) find a way to enter the human world. Sequences set in the cartoon world mimic the look of the TV series, while portions taking place in the real world use a computer-generated moose and squirrel to interact with live-action characters. ALICE IN CARTOONLAND

The "Alice in Cartoonland" series marked the true launch of the Walt Disney Studio. After showing promise with his "Laugh-O-Gram" shorts, Walt moved from Kansas City to Hollywood and, with the "Alice" films, started on the path to animation history. Inspired by Max Fleischer's "Out of the Inkwell" series, Disney reversed Fleischer's premise and had a five-action girl interacting with a cartoon world. Although visually simple compared to modern animation, these shorts retain their ability to charm and amuse. Animation greats Ub Iwerks, Hugh Harman and Rudolf Ising are among the artists who helped to create these historic films. This collection includes "Alice the Toreador" (1925), "Alice's Egg Plant" (1925), "Alice Rattled by Rats" (1925), "Alice in the Jungle" (1925), "Alice on the Farm" (1925), "Alice's Ornery Orphan" (1925) and "Alice the Whaler" (1927). BEANY AND CECIL: THE SPECIAL EDITION

At last, a fitting tribute to one of the great cartoon teams: Beany, (the precocious boy wearing a propeller cap) and his best pal, Cecil (the seasick sea serpent); on their 50th anniversary in show business! This special edition is also a tribute to Beany and Cecil's creator, Bob Clampett. Formerly a standout director at the Warner Bros. cartoon studio, Clampett set off on his own in the late 1940s with the dream to create what he called "dimensional animation." The result was "Time for Beany." The wild success of the show spawned several other puppet shows, including "Thunderbolt the Wondercolt," and the first puppet variety show, "Willy the Wolf." Jam packed with a dozen of the original "Beany and Cecil" cartoons, plus four kinescopes of the earliest episodes from "Time for Beany" which have not been seen since their original airing over fifty years ago. New transfers have been made from the original 35mm camera negatives. Includes reconstructed work prints of many unsold Clampett projects, including an Edgar Bergen & Charlie McCarthy show from 1961 and the bizarre "Tex and Judy" from 1962 (live action heads on cartoon bodies). Audio interviews with Clampett, early TV talk show appearances, interview with puppeteer Walker Edmiston; story session audio tracks; home movies, backstage footage and rare photos; publicity material; archive material; Bob Clampett USA 215 min.

THE BEST OF ZAGREB FILM: Nudity Required

The human condition in all its beauty and strangeness is explored in seven animated shorts from Yugoslavia's famous Zagreb studio. "Way to Your Neighbor" (Nedeljko Dragic, 1970) sets up a perfect punch line as a man dresses for work. "Satiemania" (Zdenko Gasparovic, 1978) is an internationally award-winning portrait of city life, set to the music of Eric Satie. "Album" (Kresimir Simonic, 1983) is a very personal film in which a young girl relives childhood memories as she looks through a family photo album. "Plop" (Zlatko Pavlinic) is a zany tale of a man who picks up a girl in a bar and expects her to do his housework. "The Match" (Kresimir Simonic, 1987) is a wildly entertaining depiction of a hard-fought soccer game. "Dream Doll" (Bob Godfrey/Zlatko Grgic, 1979) is an Oscar-nominated collaboration between Zagreb's Grgic and British animation legend Godfrey. The story concerns a man's intimate relationship with a blow-up doll. Finally, "Mouseferatu" (1987) brings the Dracula legend to the rodent world. Yugoslavia 1970-87 58 mins.

Sunday Morning Funnies BEETLE BAILEY

These Beetle Bailey cartoons were commissioned for the "King Features Trilogy" syndicated TV strip in 1963. General Halftrack, Sergeant Snorkel, Beetle Bailey and his lazy chums Zero, Cosmo, and Rocky were drafted from Mort Walker's comic strip, and assigned to Paramount/Famous Studios for conversion into animated characters. Handling this chore were Seymour Kneitel and Shamus Culhane, who cranked out 50 episodes in all, ten of which are stationed on this volume: "Camp Invisible," "Lucky Beetle," "Grab Your Socks," "Is This Drip Necessary," "The Diet," "Et Tu Otto," "The Jinx," "The Courage Encourager," "Go Yeast, Young Man," and "Psychological Testing." BETTY BOOP

THE DEFINITIVE COLLECTION

A lot of credit has to go to Bob Sigman, president of Republic Entertainment. When he joined the company, he knew there was some value to the fantastic Fleischer library of cartoons Republic owned. Because of his involvement in packaging the GOLDEN AGE OF LOONEY TUNES laserdisc sets, Bob contacted Jerry Beck about curating a collection of Betty Boop. Originally designed as a laserdisc set, Jerry decided to keep most of the pre-code cartoons together and many of the later cartoons grouped by theme. Some people love the "Pudgy" cartoons and others do not, so he decided to group those together instead of inter-mixing them, likewise the "Grampy" films. Many rare titles are included here, including "Barnacle Bill," "Zula Hula," "Sally Swing" and a clever politically incorrect live action-animation combination called "Out of the Inkwell." They couldn't call it THE COMPLETE BETTY BOOP, because there turned out to be at least four missing cartoons — cartoons which were never sold to the U.M.&M. TV Corp. (a consortium of TV stations who bought the cartoons from Paramount Pictures in the mid-1950s). Those missing titles are "Buzzo Boop," "Buzzo Boop at the Concert," "Honest Love & True," and "Pudgy and the Lost Kitten." If anyone has good copies of those titles, contact us at Whole Toon! What is here is 115 Fleischer classics in their original black & white glory (except "Poor Cinderella," presented in two-color Technicolor). 3-D backgrounds, Sammy Timburg music, Cab Calloway, Bimbo, KoKo, surreal pre-code humor and the famous Bouncing Ball for the ridiculously low price of $69.95. If everyone buys this set, maybe Republic can be persuaded to release the Screen Songs, Color Classics and George Pal Puppetoons!

BETTY BOOP DEFINITIVE COLLECTION VOL. 1 The Birth of Betty

62 min. 1930-31 [Fleischer] B&W

The first volume of the collection leads off with an introduction by Max Fleischer's son, Richard, followed by eight of the earliest Betty cartoons. The first few show Betty as an nameless walk-on playing to the top-billed star, Bimbo. This proto-Betty sports long dog-ears (but nothing else especially canine) that gradually become less prominent as both she and Bimbo evolve away from dogginess in later appearances. The final cartoon on the tape shows Betty as we're accustomed to seeing her, and also gives her top billing for the first time. 8 titles. Dizzy Dishes ('30), Barnacle Bill ('30), Mysterious Mose ('30), The Bam Bandit ('31), Silly Scandals ('31), Bimbo's Express ('31), Minding The Baby ('31) and Mash-A-Raid ('31).

BETTY BOOP DEFINITIVE COLLECTION VOL. 2 Pre-Code & Jazzy Guest Stars

108 min. 1931-33 [Fleischer] B&W

The first half of the tape features Betty's more racy outings from the pre-Hays Code days. Then the second half showcases the great musical cartoons guest-starring Louis Armstrong, Cab Calloway and others. 14 titles. Pre-Code: Boop-Oop-A-Doop ('32), S.O.S. ('32), Chees-Nuts ('32), A Hunting We Will Go ('32), Betty Boop's Bizzy Bee ('32), Betty Boop's Bamboo Isle ('32) and Betty Boop For President ('32). Jazzy Guest Stars: Minnie The Moocher ('32), I'll Be Glad When You're Dead You Rascal You ('32), Snow-White ('33), The Old Man Of The Mountain ('33), Kitty From Kansas City ('31), Rudy Vallee Melodies ('32) and You Try Somebody Else ('32).

CALVIN & THE COLONEL VOL. 1

Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll produced and voiced a cartoon version of their long-running "Amos 'n' Andy" radio series animated by Creston Studios ("Crusader Rabbit"). The cigar-smoking bear Calvin J. Burnside stood in for Andy Brown, while Colonel Montgomery J. Klaxton was not far removed from George "Kingfish" Stevens. The scripts were usually quite witty - no surprise, since many of them were recycled word-for-word from the original "Amos 'n' Andy" radio scripts. 2 episodes. In "Thanksgiving Dinner" the Colonel invites 30 relatives for Thanksgiving, thinking they'll forget. When they show up, he can't afford to feed them. In "Sister Sue's Sweetheart," the Colonel's sister is getting married. This means he'll lose $300 a month, so he tries to stop the wedding. USA 1961 50 min.

VHS: $34847 19.95

CALVIN & THE COLONEL VOL. 2

2 episodes. In "Sycamore Lodge," the Colonel sublets his flooded-out vacation cottage to Calvin, but Maggi Belle and Sister Sue have also rented it out to someone. In "Wheeling and Dealing," the Colonel is not supposed to drive a friend's car that he's storing. When he wrecks it, his next stop is the insurance company. Both episodes with original commercials. USA 1961 50 min.

CARTOON NOIR

This animation anthology collects six short films from around the world that reflect a dark, sometimes humorous, sometimes disturbing, sensibility. Abductees (Paul Vester, Great Britain, 1995) illustrates five allegedly true stories of alien abduction using a wide variety of animation techniques. Ape (Julie Zammarchi, USA, 1992) concerns a most unusual dinner argument between a grouchy, married couple. Club of the Discarded (Jiri Barto, Czechoslovakia, 1989) is a Svanekmajer-inspired film about some rather lively mannequins. Gentle Spirit (Piotr Dumala, Poland, 1987) explores sexual violence in a story derived from Dostoevsky. Joy Street (Suzan Pitt, USA, 1996) presents a woman's spiritual journey from suicidal despair to personal renewal. Finally, The Story of the Cat and the Moon (Pedro Serrazina, Portugal, 1995), follows a feline in love with the elusive lunar landscape. 1987-96 83 min.

CARTOONS THAT TIME FORGOT

THE UB IWERKS COLLECTION

A 7-volume series programmed by Greg Ford, celebrating the pioneering solo animation work of Ub Iwerks and the Van Beuren Studio. Characters like Flip The Frog, Cubby Bear, Willie Whopper and Molly Moo Cow may not be household names, but the people behind them -- Ub Iwerks, Grim Natwick, Frank Tashlin, Irv Spence, Bill Littlejohn, Burt Gillette, Shamus Culhane and Carl Stalling -- make for a veritable Who's Who of master cartoon makers. This series uncovers important missing links in animation history, mostly mastered from the restored original negatives, that have not been seen in decades.

CARTOONS TIME FORGOT VOL. 1 All Singing! All Dancing!

CAT CITY

This imaginative animated feature from Hungary's renowned Pannonia Film Studio, is an edgy and amusing satire on corruption in modern society. Cat City is a community run by the feline underworld, where the mice are -- needless to say -- a bit low on the food chain. But a scientific breakthrough offers the down-trodden mice the chance to shrink the criminal kitties down to their size and turn Cat City into Mouseville. Directed by Bela Ternovsky. Hungary 1986 91 min.

CATS DON'T DANCE

A clever spin on an old Hollywood story as young, optimistic Danny comes to L.A. with a dream to be a big star, only to learn that Tinsel Town is a cruel, heartless town. The character design is fun, the animation is full and at times spectacular, and even the songs are good. If you're looking for an alternative to the epic fairytales that today's animated features have become, this film is the answer. Directed by Mark Dindal, produced by Turner Feature Animation. Laserdisc is widescreen. USA 1997 77 min.

CHICKEN RUN

The award-winning creators of Wallace and Gromit were the main talent behind this whimsical and very funny feature that essentially retells The Great Escape as a story about chickens trying to fly the coop before they are turned into food by the evil Mrs. Tweedy. Mel Gibson, Miranda Richardson, Jane Horrocks and Timothy Spall provide some of the voices, but the real star is the wonderful design and meticulous detail of the stop-motion animation. Great fun for kids or adults. DVD included with features, DVD-ROM downloadables and many extras. Great Britain 2000 85 min.

CONTEMPORARY ESTONIAN ANIMATION VOL. 1: PRIT PÄRN

A collection of vital works from Prit Pärn, one of the top artists from the overlooked animation community of Estonia. Pärn's films are witty, richly textured investigations of individual identity within shifting and often absurd political, social and cultural landscapes. Often described as examples of "grotesque realism," rather than surrealism, Pärn's films are strikingly original and consistently intelligent. On this volume: "And Plays Tricks" (1979, 10 mins.), "Some Exercises in Preparation for an Independent Life" (1981, 9 mins.), "Breakfast on the Grass" (1988, 24 mins.) and "Hotel E" (1992, 28 mins.). Estonia 1979-1992 71 min.

COOL MCCOOL

Batman creator Bob Kane's second TV project after "Courageous Cat" was inspired by the TV series "Get Smart." Bungling crimesolver Cool McCool's trademark was a transistorized moustache rather than a shave phone, and voice actor Bob McFadden supplied him with speech patterns reminiscent of Jack Benny. Animation was subcontracted to TWC in England, and supervised by George Dunning, who soon went on to more prestigious projects like "Yellow Submarine." This volume contains the episodes "Garden Of Evil," "Here's Pie In Your Eye," "Rocket Racket," "The Wood Chopper," "The Big Brainwash," "Gym Dandy," "Shrinking The Slinker," and "The Box Fox." George Dunning USA 1966 56 min.

DEFA ANIMATION NO. 1: WITHOUT WORDS

Established in 1955, the animation branch of East Germany's DEFA film studio initially produced shorts exclusively for children. During the 1970s and '80s, however, cartoons aimed at older audiences became more common. Often these films, which displayed a wide variety of styles and techniques, contained elements of social and political satire that would never have been allowed in live-action films. This collection includes 17 animated shorts rarely seen outside of Germany, each entirely without dialogue. Films: "Belly and Soul" (Klaus Georgi, 1988); "Loneliness" (Otto Sacher, 1980); "Stars & Flowers" (Otto Sacher, 1979); "Variants" (Klaus Georgi, 1980); "Drum Beat" (Otto Sacher, 1975); "The Seven Rights of the Viewer" (Peter Missbach, 1980); "The Monument" (Klaus Georgi/Lutz Stützner, 1989); "The Solution" (Sieglind Hamacher, 1988); "Hello" (Hans Moser/Thomas Rosier, 1984); "Mr. Daff Is Taking a Picture" (1981); "Sunday" (Klaus Georgi/Lutz Stützner, 1990); "Asinine: The Rescue" (Sieglind Hamacher, 1980); "Island Joke" (Lutz Stützner, 1990); "Consequence" (Klaus Georgi, 1987); "The Full Circle" (Klaus Georgi, 1989); "The Breakdown" (Klaus Georgi/Lutz Stützner, 1988); and "Mr. Daff Is Moving" (1982). Available with Public Performance Rights East Germany 1975-90 60 min.

FANTASIA 2000

When Walt Disney first conceived of Fantasia, he imagined it as constantly changing work, with new segments added periodically to continually explore the combination of classical music and animation. Nearly 60 years later, Walt's nephew Roy followed up on the original concept with this new anthology. The music of Stravinsky, Gershwin, Shostakovich, Beethoven and others is illustrated in a variety of fashions, from the abstract to the traditional Disney style. Donald Duck shows up for "Pomp and Circumstance," while Mickey Mouse is back in the only segment returning from the original film, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice." Eight directors are credited for this massive project. The music is performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, conducted by James Levine. Introductions by Steve Martin, Itzhak Perlman, Penn & Teller and others. Originally released as an IMAX film. Also includes Toot, Whistle, Plunk and Boom (1953 Oscar), original theatrical trailer, "making of" featurette and audio commentaries by film's producer, directors and art directors. USA 1997 75 min.

VHS: S28233 12.95

FUN AND FANCY FREE

Like Disney's later "Ichabod and Mr. Toad" (1949), this film essentially contains two stories linked together with some delightful Jiminy Cricket animation and Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy technicolor footage. But the main thing here is "Bongo," the story of a circus bear who finds adventure in the forest, and "Mickey and The Beanstalk," a classic Mickey, Donald and Goofy adventure. The print quality is superb and a nice "making-of" short is attached at the end. USA 1947 73 min.

Marvel Superhero Cartoons

Remember those super-limited animation Marvel Super-hero cartoons from the late 1960s. We loved them because they were the most faithful adaptations of the comic books ever created! We hated them because they barely moved. But the voice acting is great, and the artwork is classic 1960s Kirby, Ditko, Colon, Everett, and Heck! Did we mention Kirby? Jack "King" Kirby!! And each tape contains a brand new, exclusive interview with Stan (the Man) Lee!

Marvel Superheroes: CAPTAIN AMERICA

Pow! Wham! Zap! Cheesy Grantry-Lawrence animation blown up directly from the comic books by Stan Lee and Jack Kirby. New York kiddie show host Sandy Becker IS Captain America in "The Origin of Captain America" and "The Fantastic Origin of Red Skull." This nostalgic set includes an interview with Marvel Comics pioneer Stan Lee. USA 1966 50 min.

VHS: S36349 14.95

Marvel Superheroes: THE INCREDIBLE HULK

PETE'S DRAGON

As the one and only friend of a young orphan named Pete, Elliot the dragon can also be a big problem. When the town tries to capture Elliot, the dragon's ability to breath fire could well save the day in this Disney mix of live action and animation. Directed by Don Bluth. USA 1977 128 min.

VHS: S01590 24.95

THE PEBBLE AND THE PENGUIN

Shy Hubie the penguin (Martin Short) falls in love but is swept out to sea before he can claim his mate. All sorts of dangers confront him before he can return home. Great animation, songs by Barry Manilow, and voices by Jim Belushi and Tim Curry highlight this under-rated Don Bluth effort. Bluth left his studio to commence Anastasia for Fox, hence no director credit... but his touch is unmistakable. Laserdisc is letterboxed. USA 1995 74 min.

VHS: S01020 19.95

PINOCCHIO

Considered by many to be the finest film Disney ever made, it cost a staggering 2.5 million dollars (about $60 million if made today). Directed by Ben Sharpsteen and Hamilton Luske, this is the tale of the little puppet who comes to life, and his struggles to grow up among some terribly bad influences. The scenes of Monstro the Whale and the multiplane camera opening sequence are worth the price of admission by themselves. Probably the definitive example of "Disney Animation." USA 1940 88 min.

REMBRANDT FILMS' GREATEST HITS

While producing "Tom and Jerry" and "Popeye" cartoons for other companies between 1959 and 1970, the animators of Rembrandt Films also created many original, award-winning theatrical shorts. Rembrandt was the company that introduced Czech animation master Jiri Trnka to America and the witty and unique works on this collection were all produced in Prague, although directed by American animator Gene Deitch. In "Munro" (1960), based on the drawings of Jules Feiffer, a 4-year-old boy is mistakenly drafted by the U.S. army. This cartoon classic won the Academy Award for Best Animated Short Film. "Frozen Logger" is based on the folk song by Lee Hayes of The Weavers and tells the tale of a waitress who falls in love with a fanciful woodsmen. Arthur Treacher provides the sardonic narration for Rembrandt's comical "Self Help" series, represented on this volume by "Self Defense for Cowards" (1962), "How to Avoid Friendship" (1964), "How to Win on the Thruway" and "How to Live with a Neurotic Dog". "Anatole" is a wonderful, brief adaptation of the children's book by Eve Titus. This set also includes three "Nudnik" shorts, produced between 1964 and 1966, featuring the studio's signature character. Finally, there are two series pilots that were largely unseen for over 30 years: "Terrible Tessie" and "Big Sam and Punky". Gene Deitch USA/Czechoslovakia 1959-1970 60 mins.

THE ROAD TO EL DORADO NEW

In this "high-spirited and colorful adventure" (Roger Ebert, Roger Ebert & The Movies), The DreamWorks animation studio brought comedy to the forefront of the Disney-styled cartoon feature. Kevin Kline and Kenneth Branagh provide the voices for two con-men who escape from the custody of the Spanish explorer Cortes and stumble upon the famous lost city of gold. The pair are sort of a 16th century Hope and Crosby, providing plenty of laughs to complement the skillful, classical American animation style. Also featuring the voices of Rosie Perez, Armand Assante, Edward James Olmos, and the songs of Elton John and Tim Rice. Directed by Eric Bergeron and Don Paul. DVD extras include a "making of" featurette, audio commentary, Elton John music video, and much more. USA 2000 89 min.

SALUDOS AMIGOS

Walt Disney's oddball combination of live-action travelogue and animated short compilation was slapped together during WW2 as a goodwill project toward our South American neighbors. It opens with footage of Walt and his staff on the plane ride from L.A. to points south of the border, and intersperses travelogue footage with four animated shorts inspired by the staff's travels. The animated sequences are: Donald Duck at Lake Titicaca, behaving like a typical American tourist; Little Pedro the airplane braving the Andes to make sure the mail gets through; "El Gaucho Goofy" bumbling as a cowboy trying to cope with the differences between the American West and the Pampas region; and Jose Carioca taking Donald Duck on a tour of the continent and teaching him to Samba. This is the first time the film has been reissued in its original form. Plus a roughly animated, never-before-seen Donald Duck cartoon. Bill Roberts/Jack Kinney/Hamilton Luske/Wilfred Jackson USA 1943 42 min.

THE THIEF & THE COBBLER

Nearly thirty years in the making, The Thief and The Cobbler is almost literally Richard Williams' life work. Some of animation's greatest names have contributed to the production over the years, and the lush animation and Escher-like backgrounds are a visual feast. Williams was unable to complete the film on time, so the money men took it away from him—hastily slapping together something that could pass as a complete movie. The version appearing on this tape is a disappointing patchwork of breathtaking Williams animation mixed with hock fill-in scenes, lame Disney-esque musical numbers, and a jarringly inappropriate soundtrack. Even so, every animation devotee must have this film. UK 1977 85 min.

THE THREE CABALLEROS

Starring Donald Duck, Jose Carioca and Panchito, this combination of live action and animation was made as a companion piece to "Saludos Amigos", a goodwill gesture by Disney toward our South American allies. Donald celebrates his birthday down south, opening a wondrous collection of gifts that evolve into musical journeys with a Latin beat. 3 titles: "Baja," "The Cold-Blooded Penguin" and "The Flying Gauchito." Also included are two Disney shorts that were not a part of the feature: "Don's Fountain of Youth" (Jack Hannah, 1953) and "Pueblo Pluto" (Charles A. Nichols, 1949). USA 1944 71 min.

THE THREE LITTLE PIGS

When first released, "The Three Little Pigs" contained a scene of the Wolf disguised as the "Fuller-Brush Man": an outrageous Jewish peddler ethnic stereotype, complete with long beard and a huge, hooked nose. Quickly, Disney reloaded the ethnic-sounding voice track, and in the 1940s actually re-animated the scene without the Jewish peddler disguise. For the first time in sixty years, you can see the original version, complete with the original United Artists opening title card. The voice track on this tape is the reloaded version with a "Goofy"-esque voice. Includes the Oscar-winning "Three Little Pigs" ('33) and two "sequels" from the Silly Symphonies series: "The Big Bad Wolf" ('34) and "Three Little Wolves" ('36). Laserdisc also contains the cartoons on "Disney's Favorite Stories: Paul Bunyan." USA 1933-36 28 min.

TINY TOON ADVENTURES: HOW I SPENT MY VACATION

This theatrical feature never made it to the theatres, going straight to video instead. Plucky Duck and Hampton head for (gasp and drool!) Happy World Land, Buster & Babs turn a squirt-gun fight into a globe-hopping adventure, and Elmyra treats the ferocious beasts in a drive-through safari park like cute widdle pudgy tats. The animation is very good, and the energy level remains high for all 80 minutes. USA 1991 80 min.

VAMPIRES IN HAVANA

This bawdy, fast-paced animated feature spoofs horror films and gangster movies in an original, fun-loving fashion. Vampire scientist Professor von Dracula leaves Transylvania for Cuba, where he invents "Vampisol," a potion that allows vampires to survive in sunlight. Although he intends to distribute the potion for free, Chicago's Vampire Mafia and the European Group of Vampires from Dusseldorf have other ideas. Bad guys, sexy girls, monsters and tourists all become a part of the cartoon chaos. The Latin jazz score features legendary trumpeter Arturo Sandoval. Spanish with English subtitles. Wallace & Gromit

A GRAND DAY OUT

Nick Park's charming clay animation brings to life the comically pedestrian Englishman Wallace and his dog Gromit. In this Academy Award nominated featurette, when the pair run out of cheese for their tea-time biscuits, they build a spaceship in order to fly to the moon. There they meet a truly outlandish moon creature that takes exception to their cheese-harvesting mission. UK 1990 30 min.

VHS: S26395 9.95

THE WRONG TROUSERS

In this Oscar-winning Nick Park featurette, Wallace and Gromit are forced to take in a boarder—a comically sinister penguin. Wallace's latest invention, the techno-trousers, is hijacked by the penguin to execute a daring jewel robbery. Fortunately, Gromit intercedes at the last moment, and the film climaxes with a chase sequence that represents a new pinnacle of stop-motion animation technique. UK 1994 30 min.

VHS: S25660 9.95

A CLOSE SHAVE

Nick Park's last Wallace and Gromit featurette won the 1995 Academy Award. Wallace falls for a woman who turns out to be involved in a sinister sheep-rustling scheme. Of course, it's Gromit who figures it all out and comes to the rescue of Wallace and the hapless sheep, Shorn. UK 1995 30 min.

FACETS®

Facets Video grew out of our belief that one's home—your home—could become the art movie theatre of the 1990s. With video, you can discover classics, silent films and other rare film treasures on your TV screen.

But to make great film and video really accessible to everyone, we needed to create a collection of breathtaking proportions: a library of over 35,000 foreign, independent, experimental, classic American, silent, documentary, fine arts, and quality children's videos, laserdiscs, DVDs and CD-ROMs.

People often ask us, "Have you watched all those movies?" Well, without any sleep, it would take only four full years of movie watching! And Facets Video is always growing, always searching for special films in which the director has something to say, and a challenging new way in which to say it.

Each day, we're thrilled at the discovery of great classics, and bold new talents. With the support of film and video lovers like yourself, Facets Video has grown into an incredible resource for anyone who has ever loved the moving image.
